Maass, Otto

DEGREE: PhD          DATE: 1919          PLACE: Harvard TEACHER/RESEARCH ADVISOR: Richards

trained over 200 PhD chemists; pioneered the production of pure hydrogen peroxide; studied critical temperature phenomena; investigated the physical chemistry of cellulose and of the chemical pulping process; during WWII, coordinated the work at McGill that produced the explosive, RDX.

1. For confirmation of research advisor, see acknowledgement page of thesis (Harvard Archives, 18May93).